Carol Lapp

Dear Carol,

I have just written so much in everyone's annual, that I will probably have to say about the ~~for~~ very same things for you.

First of all, I want to just try and express how much these three years here have meant to me. I have had a wonderful time these couple of years. I was ~~new~~ here my sophomore year. And everyone was so nice to me. And my junior year I had the most fun. Being the Jr.-Sr. and all.

Well, I'm back again - sorry I had to ~~@~~ leave go. But, really, I have enjoyed it. There will always be things to remember about being here. And things about M.Y. to remember, too. Like going bowling, and to the Jump-jump, and going to Sub-district Council Meeting! Re-mem-ber? Well, we really should go! Shouldn't we?!?!?

But, after leaving here and completing a few more years of school, we will have many more things to remember.

So just be sweet and stay friendly. May God Bless you always and Good Luck follow you.

Love always,
Marty

Dearest Carol,
How do I tell you what these four years as good friends have meant to me. We have had such wonderful times, fun and this year and lived so much happier wildest women. We turned into some of the closest of most.

friends
Carol, you are a very sweet person! You are kind, generous, and very concerned with other people's problems. You understand AND listen; those are two of the best qualities in a REAL friend.
I just don't know how to tell you that Carol, I hope and wish for you to win friends and happiness some day of happiness and love to all that will go far in life. To a dear friend I give my love,
Anne

Carol,

The very best of luck to a wonderful friend. I certainly have enjoyed your friendship these four years.

As always,

Jane Williams

Senior - '61

Always stay as friendly as you are and you will go far.

Always,

Libby "Jim"

May God guide your every step and lead you to happiness as well as success.

Northwest . . .

Unity . . .

Foreword

Our school is unique. Other buildings, other scenes, other faces may resemble ours, but they are never the same. This school is ours alone; we have molded its solid walls from our mirth and our sorrow; we have forged its beams in the crucible of our character; we have put its parts together with the cohesive stuff of our tears and our laughter. The strength of the whole come from the UNITY that makes all the various little parts fit together. You are one of those essential parts; yours is the spirit that makes for unity; and unity is the source of our strength.

United We Stand

Unity is the hope of the world. It means shared joy and sorrow, success and failure, prosperity and poverty; it means understanding, with its attendant sympathy. It is loyalty and love and strength. It is the solid ranks that free people oppose to oppression.

At Northwest, unity means school spirit that leads us to cheer our teams in victory or defeat; it is the pride of the entire school in the high achievement of any of its members; it is our loyalty to our traditions.

To our ideal of unity throughout the world and in our own small part of it, we, the staff, dedicate TOHARI, 1961.

Pat Gibson gets up an hour later than the other students, because she lives next door.

A day—any day—is a lovely, many splendored thing. It is a golden coin given us at dawn from the vast treasure store of eternity. We cannot hide it away or hoard it for future spending because it is taken from us at twilight. It is a coin that we must spend, wisely or foolishly, each according to his nature; but by some strange and wonderful paradox, once we have exchanged our golden coin in the mart of life for whatever merchandise we most desire, it then becomes our own to keep forever in a treasure chest we label MEMORIES. From such a store of beloved fragments and bits we have constructed a composite day as we have lived it here at Northwest.

Moments To Remember . . .

Hugh Allen, our Student Council president, presides at each assembly.

Hugh receives the gavel, along with the duties of the Student Council, from the outgoing 1959-1960 president, Steve Kiger.

Are Fashioned From . . .

Teaching students to parallel park is all a part of a day's work for Mr. Jarvis, the Drivers Training instructor.

Jenny Lynn Joyce, the unsuspecting Homecoming Queen, awaits her turn to ride out on the football field.

Camilla McInnis, an envious junior, admires the new class rings of seniors Harry Downs and Jewell Childress.

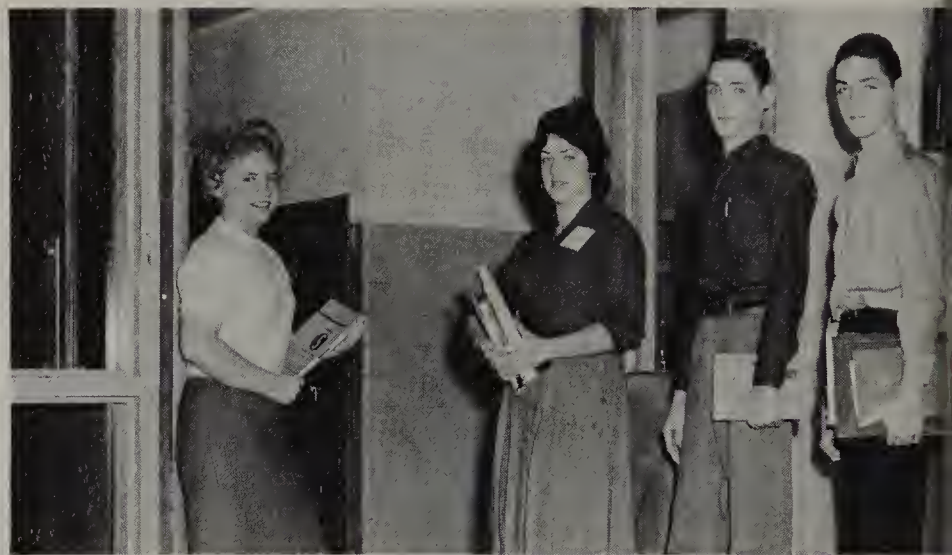

Mr. Nifong is mimeographing a test for his general math class.

Council members serve Mrs. Penner and Mr. Nifong at the annual Student Council tea for the teachers.

Friendly Faces, . . .

The Tuttle triplets, Mary Ann, Mike, and Marcus, are directed to a freshman homeroom by Student Council representative, Brenda Moore.

Wonder if these sophomores are taking in everything Mrs. Hauser is teaching them?

Mr. Gibson welcomes Frank Dorn, a new student at Northwest, and makes him feel at home.

Jenny Lynn Joyce, Alice Smith, and Sheron Fulk add a musical note to the South Pacific theme of the 1959-1960 Junior-Senior Prom.

Yvonne Merritt takes advantage of Santa's visit to the Student Council Christmas Dance.

Familier Scenes, . . .

During football season, the cheerleaders encouraged school spirit even as far as decorating the goal post.

School Spirit, Team Loyalty, . . .

1-2-3-4... an exercise that the football players practice each day of the season.

Paul Hepler, a 1959-60 graduate, realizes his imminent departure from Northwest as he receives his diploma from Mr. Frank Stith, II.

The excuse has been given and accepted...now Brenda Shelton has only to sign the checkout sheet.

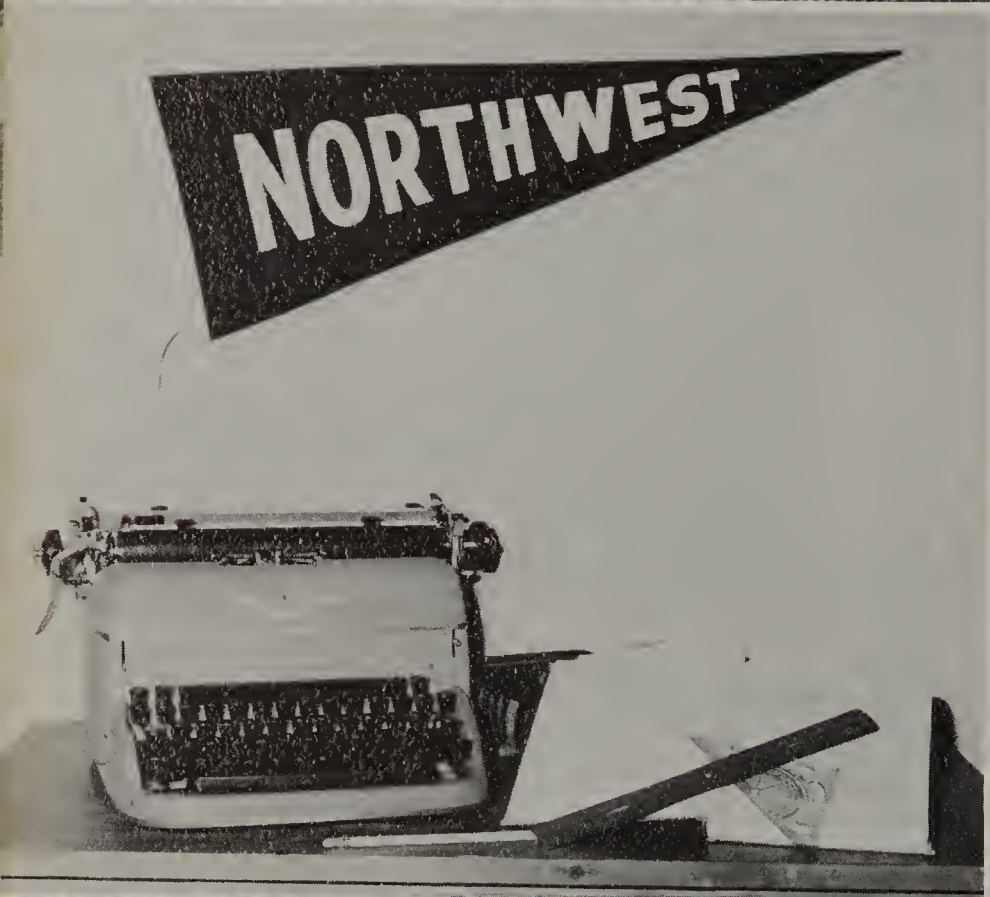

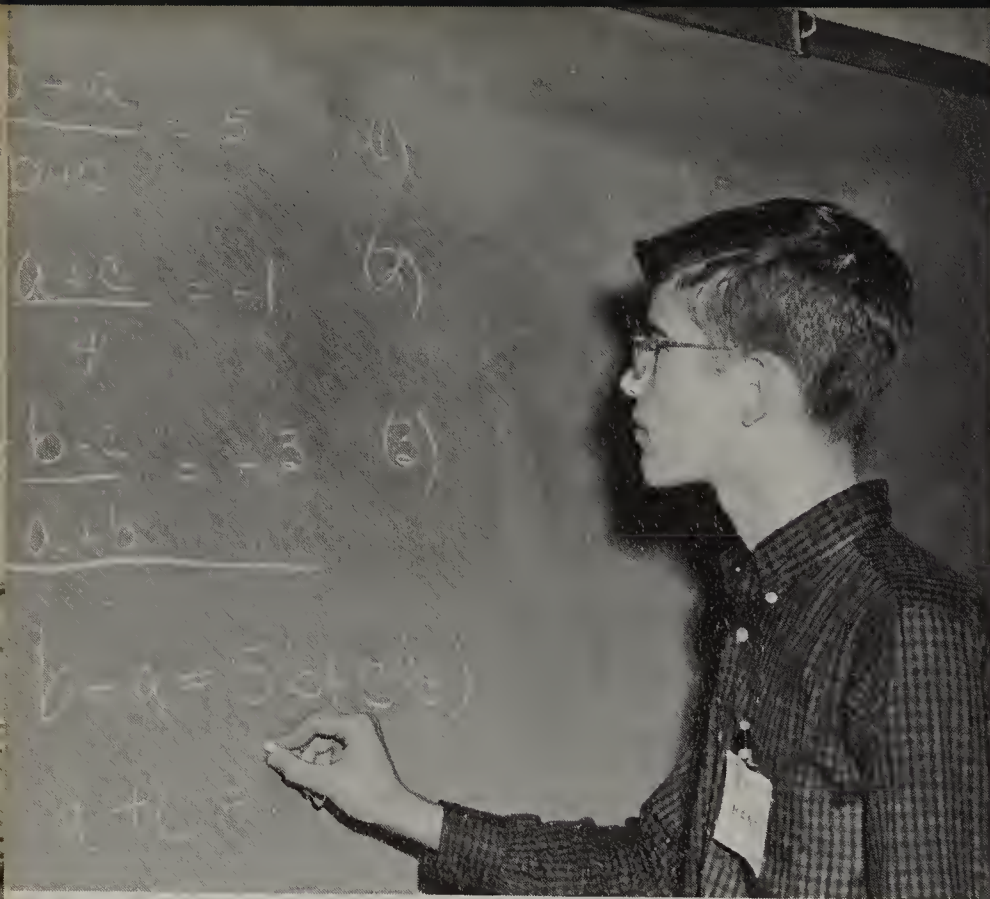

Achievement.

3:05 is here, and all the students at Northwest are seated on the buses, waiting to return home.

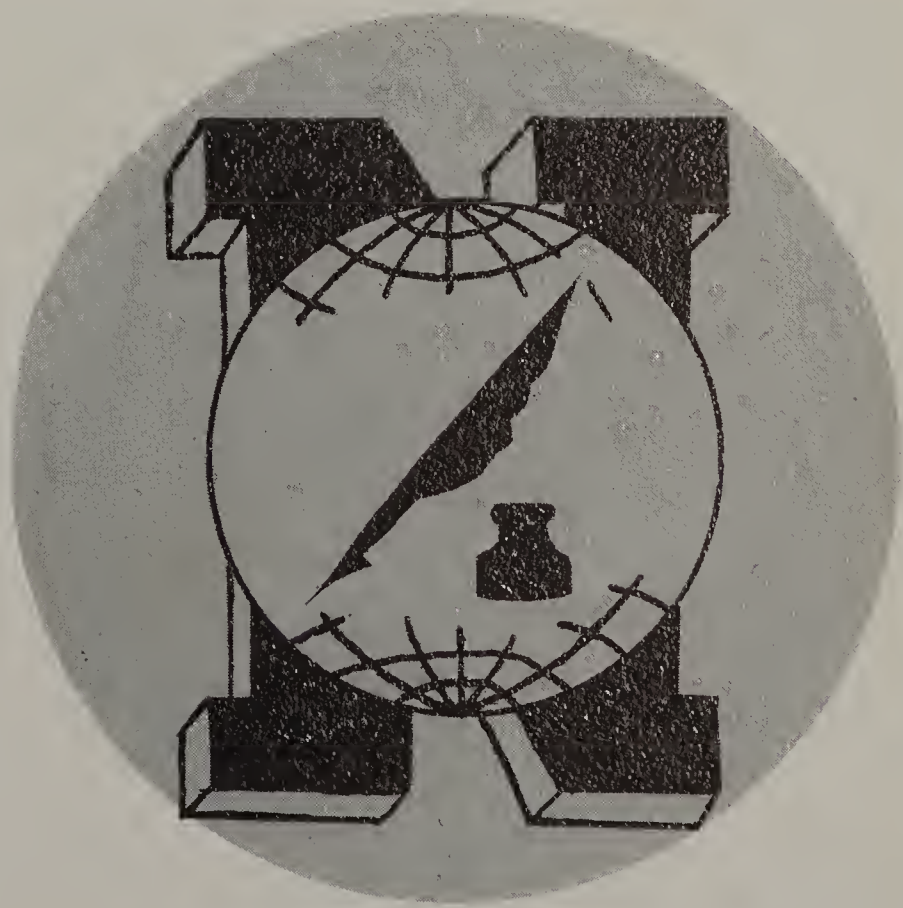

Unity

in Work . . .

All schools, of course, exist for the benefit of students; but the core, the heart of the school is a combination of students, teachers, and curriculum. At Northwest our curriculum attempts to meet the needs of all our eight hundred students; and our teachers try, with varying degrees of success, to put curriculum and students together into a harmonious and well-blended whole. The process is something after the fashion of whipping up a little five-layer devil's food with fluffy white icing! Sometimes a wholly satisfying product emerges from mixing bowl and oven, and then again it falls flat in the baking. When such a catastrophe occurs, we get together, study the causes of failure, and try again.

The P T A is an organization whose purpose is to unify the school by bringing the students' parents and teachers into closer understanding.

PTA Officers are as follows: Mrs. W. K. Joyce, Secretary; Mrs. C. E. Hartgrove, President; Miss Jessie Threlfall, First Vice-President. Standing: Mrs. C. C. Mertes. Second Vice-President; Mr. J. Alvin Fulk, Treasurer; Mrs. Blanche R. Zimmerman, Historian.

P. T. A. Officers

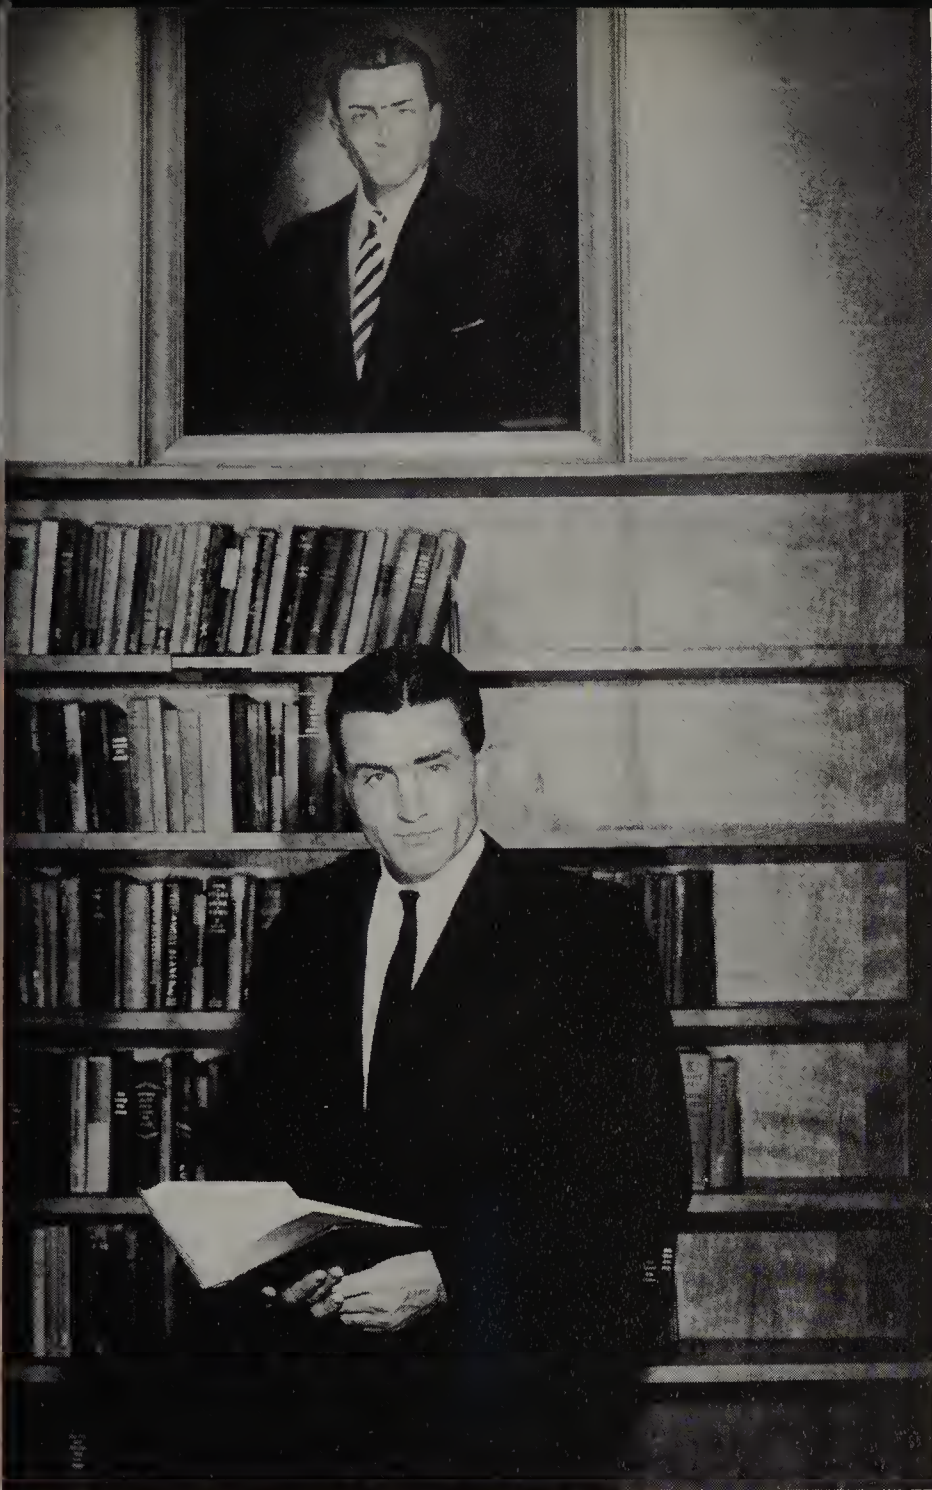

Builds A Well-Rounded Curriculum.

School Board

The school committee serves the school by taking charge of some of the administrative problems.

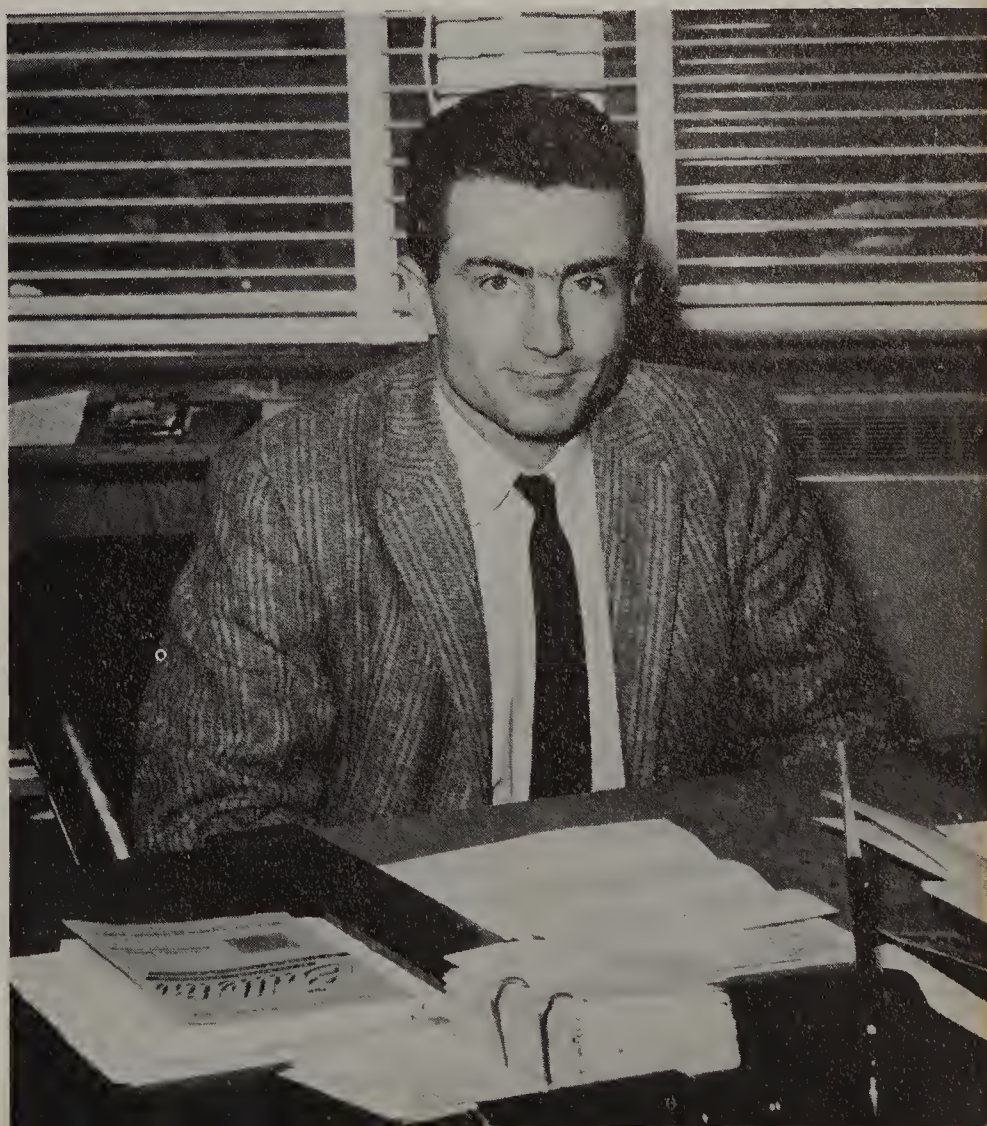

Seated: Mr. Karl G. Williams, Chairman; Mrs. Ed Phelps; Mr. James Wall. Standing: Mr. Winburn Craft; Mr. Ken Leinbach; Mr. George Petree.

Mr. Gibson, our principal, is a leader setting an inspiring example, a friend helping all who need help, and a good citizen performing his duty to society. Because of his never-ending dedication to his job, his genuine interest in the welfare of the individuals around him, his simplicity and friendliness, his fairness and integrity, he has earned the respect and admiration of all who know him.

Mr. Julian Gibson,
Principal . . .

The handling of the school's finances is taken care of by Mrs. Hix, the school treasurer, and her student assistant, George Livengood. In the office next door, Mrs. Seats, the school secretary, finishes some correspondence.

Has An Efficient Staff.

Each office assistant is kept busy with the various tasks that are to be done in the office each day.

The seniors who serve as office assistants are, from left to right: Sharon Adkins, Rachel Davis, Jenny Lynn Joyce, Barbara Sprinkle, Gail Sapp, Becky Tuttle, Pat Tuttle, and Jane Lane.

No livelier class can exist anywhere than our journalism class, which publishes both newspaper and yearbook. There is always a deadline to meet, and we are forever late. Membership is restricted to juniors and seniors. Staff members are required to attend summer workshops at local and nearby colleges. We look forward to an annual field trip to visit the city newspapers and talk with members of their staffs.

The journalism class is busily at work.

Libby Elias brings to the attention of editor Sandra Barnes a funny item in an issue of a newspaper.

Betty Cooke draws away, while G. C. Petree proofreads a stencil.

These girls busily typing to meet the deadline are Lynda Blackmon, Jane Williams, and Anne Varellas.

Artists + Typists + Writers = Journalism

The all-important task of getting the mimeograph machine on the right track is being taken care of by Sharon Ridge, Yvonne Merritt, and Brenda Slate.

English Classes Stress Creativity, Research

Upper left: The five English teachers meet in the teachers' lounge to look over the latest issue of the teachers' magazine. Upper right: Ann Brock admires Miss Threlfall's automobile, which is just another evidence of her school spirit!

Mrs. Newman carefully scans the newspapers in search of clippings concerning Northwest activities to put on her bulletin board.

Themes, themes, themes! Long ones occasionally; short ones almost daily. Clarity and fluency in speaking and writing; wide and comprehensive reading; logical reasoning and organizing; words, words, words! Of such are English classes made. And we still find time to listen and look: television, motion pictures, radio contribute to our program as we learn to distinguish between good and mediocre and try to develop that indefinable something called "taste."

Mrs. Gentry looks as if the morning mail has brought her some good news.

Self-Expression

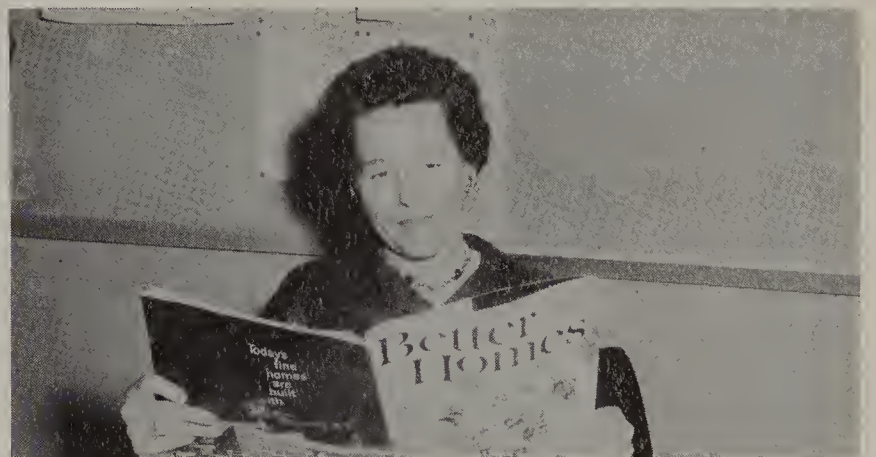

Doris Smith finishes a bulletin board on short stories.

Mrs. Cox, a teacher who began her teaching in the middle of the year, is welcomed by Joanne Tally.

The all-important research paper, which requires letter-perfect exactness is being prepared by Ronnie Hamilton, Steve Jones, and Frank Purvis.

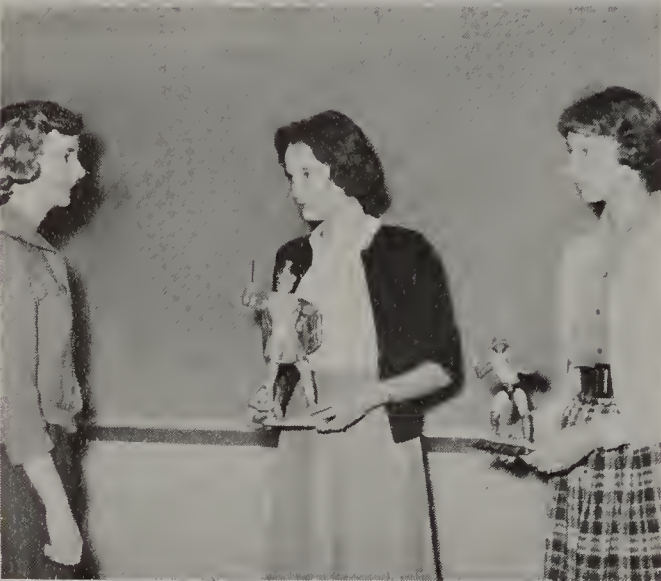

Mrs. Hauser plans her garden for this summer when school is out.

Small World of Languages;

Mrs. Sprinkle's Latin classes are crowded; Caesar's Gallic wars are fought daily, and all Gaul gets divided into more than three parts with a amazing regularity. Latin I and II are offered to freshmen and sophomores chiefly, though upper classmen are generously sprinkled throughout many of the classes. A hundred fifty-five of our students choose to study Latin.

Mr. Ivey wears a Tyrolean hat; his French car wears a Paris license plate; his classes entertain in assembly with French songs, skits, and monologues; and his graduates bring home A's from college French. Only juniors and seniors may elect French, which is largely taught by the direct method.

To start off the surprise birthday party for Mrs. Sprinkle, Sandra Young presents her with a gift from the second period Latin class.

"You aren't trying to run away with Mrs. Sprinkle's Roman bookends, are you?" says Sharon Wall to Susie Newsom and Gail Clayton.

Will this last minute cramming for the French test pay off in the end?

Sizzly Juicy!

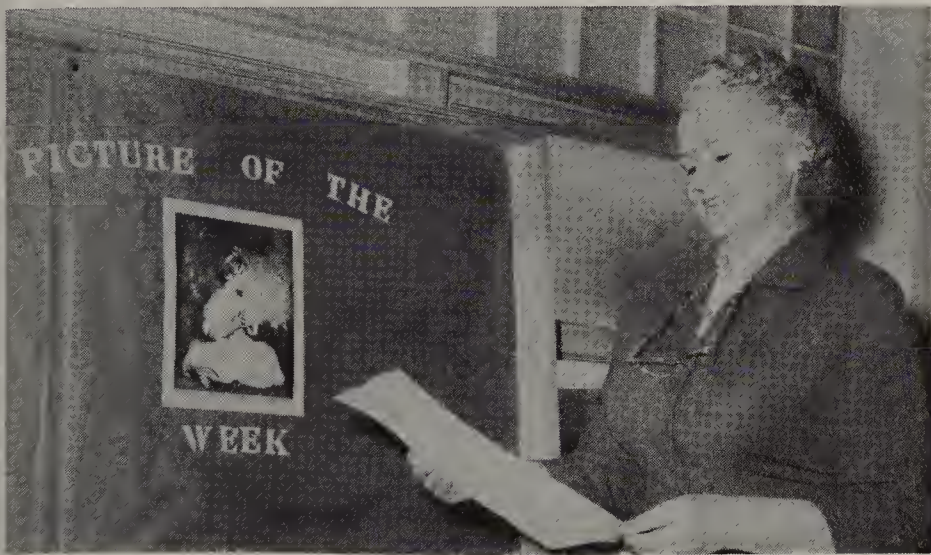

Mrs. Sprinkle proudly shows Mr. Ivey the work of one of her Latin students.

Large World of Books

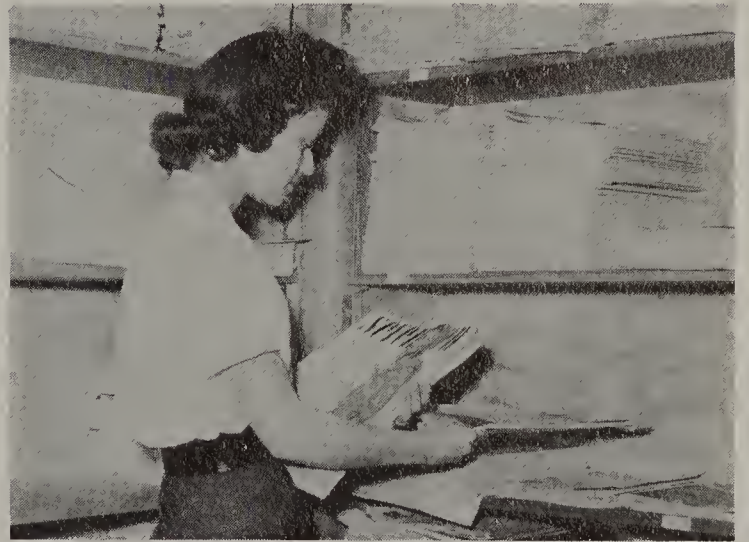

Carol Welborn finds Miss Smith's assistance a big help in working with reference books.

Our library, of 4446 volumes, seems to be the center of school life as it is conveniently located in the school's central hall. Whether we desire research material, or just want to scan the latest magazines, we always feel free to take advantage of the opportunities our library affords.

Miss Smith puts the finishing touches on the Picture-of-the-Week bulletin board in the library.

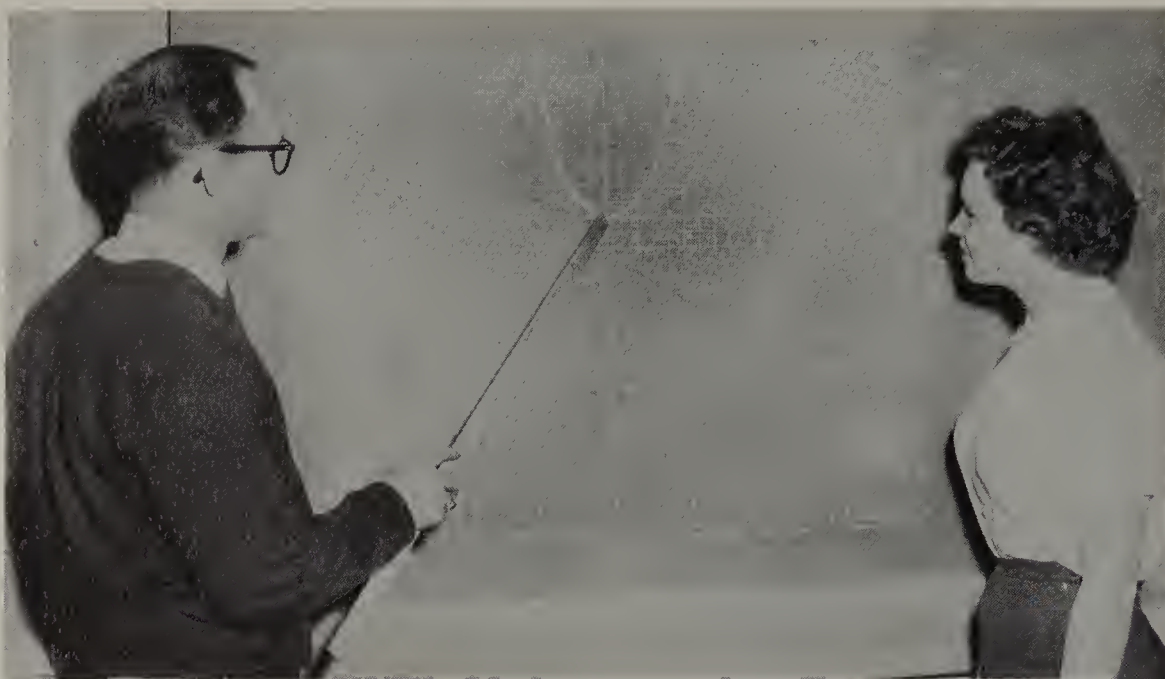

Carol Long is seen working on the long and tedious job of sorting magazines and other periodical literature.

Ruthie Meade asks Judy Rutledge's opinion of the book Ivanhoe as she checks it out.

Robert Wesley is learning in his first year that he can study better in the quietness of the library.

Mr. Larrimore takes time to explain the new work on plotting equations to Sandra Young, who has been absent.

Mr. Idol finds that being a teacher not only requires grading papers, but also a certain amount of book-keeping.

Jimmy Speas catches his mother free for a few moments so that she can help him with a difficult trigonometry problem.

Math Courses

Trig, general math, solid geometry, plane geometry, senior math, commercial math, first year algebra, second year algebra, advanced algebra...something for everybody in our mathematics department...everybody gets his choice...and then some.

"Wonder how I ever got the job of planning the intramural schedule?" says Mr. Nifong. "I'd rather teach math any day."

It's complicated, but it hasn't stumped Iris Anderson yet.

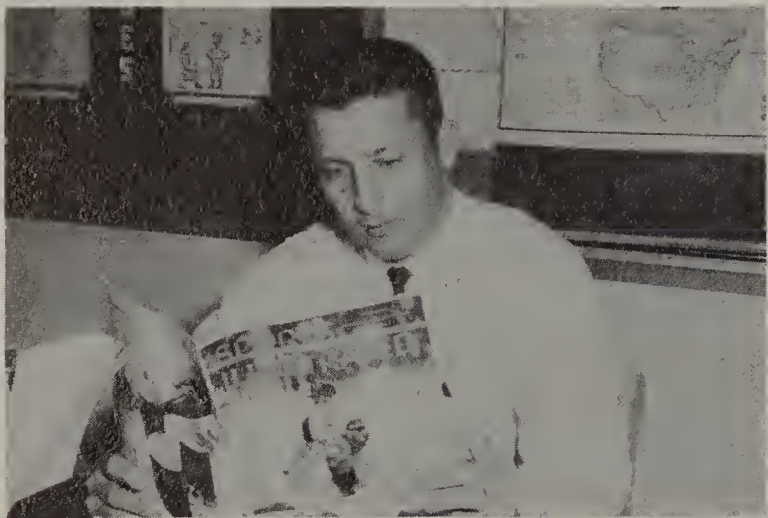

Are For Everybody

No doubt Dock Clement and Deenie Blackburn can recognize these geometric designs since they have completed their geometry course.

Stuart Gordon has good reason to look proud of this big project that he has just completed for social studies.

"I'll just tell my students that I'm looking up the history of baseball."

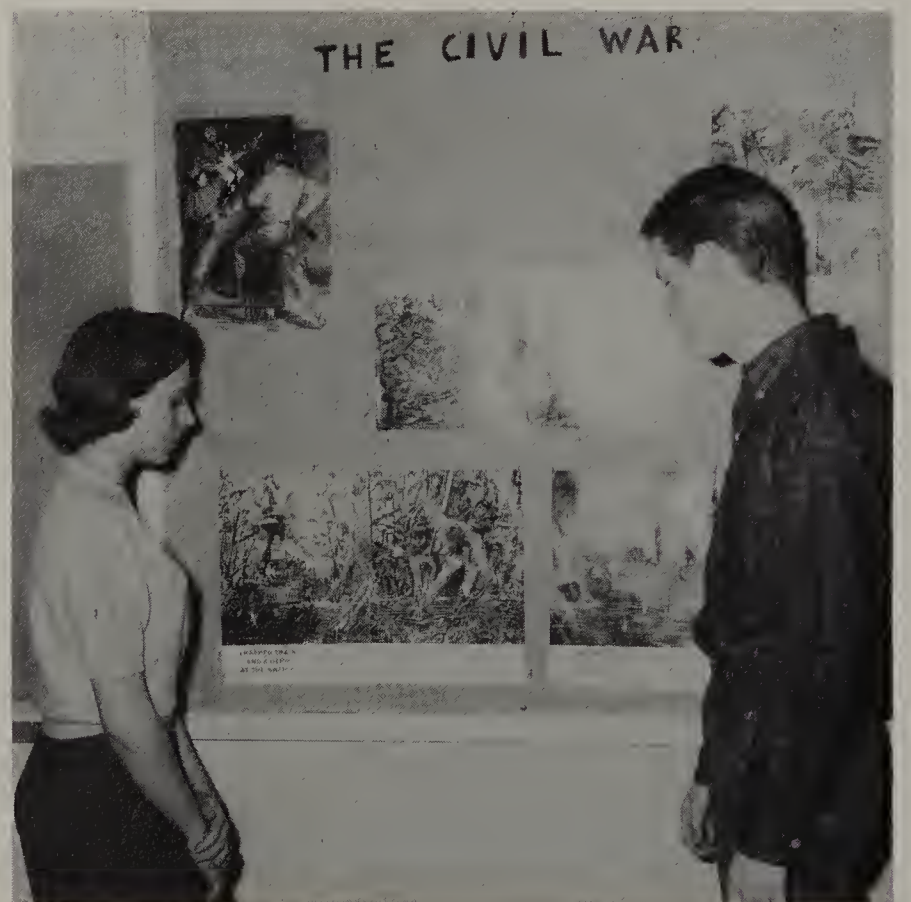

Final plans for a trip to Old Salem are confirmed by Mrs. Zimmerman for her U. S. history class.

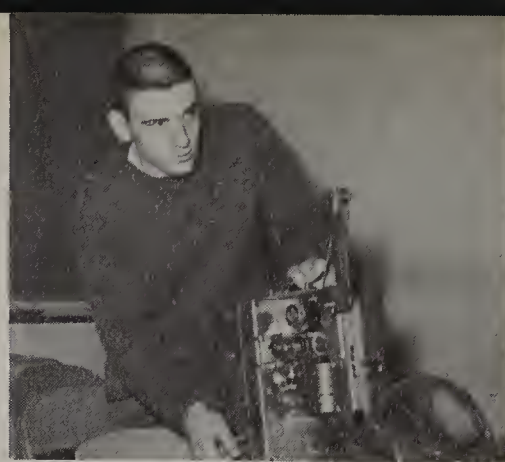

Here entering the school together is Northwest's only husband and wife teacher team, Mr. and Mrs. Nifong.

"Boy! I'm glad I wasn't General Lee."

Comes Understanding of Today's World

"I have to have this projector ready for the next period," thinks Ronnie Morgan.

Betty Elliot is only one of many students who stop Miss Peterson in the halls to see her new engagement ring.

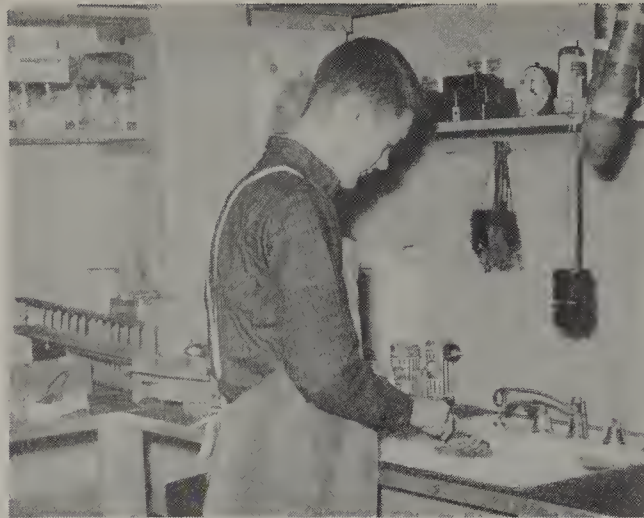

Mrs. Nifong is an American government and geography teacher, but she still finds time to fill her position as the cheerleaders' sponsor.

United States and world history are required of all students; and other courses in ancient, modern, and contemporary history are popular electives. In sociology we investigate alcoholism with speakers from Alcoholics Anonymous; narcotics and delinquency with case workers from the local health department. American government and geography have acquired new importance through current world events.

"Here she comes. I hope she likes my project." Rober Shutt and Nancy Calloway complete projects for history.

Five Courses

Upper left: Tyrone Browder can hardly believe what's before his eyes as he looks through the microscope.

Upper right: "I'm glad I don't have this kind of job at home," Jimmy Helsabeck, a chemistry student, thinks to himself.

Side: "Gee, I hope I'm fixing this right," is Carolyn Hill's only thought, as her classmates and teacher look on.

Lower right: Mr. Wilhelm listens to a question raised by a student concerning space explorations.

Intrigue The Science-Minded

Linda Carter, along with other students in the chemistry department, is learning of relationships of elements and compounds.

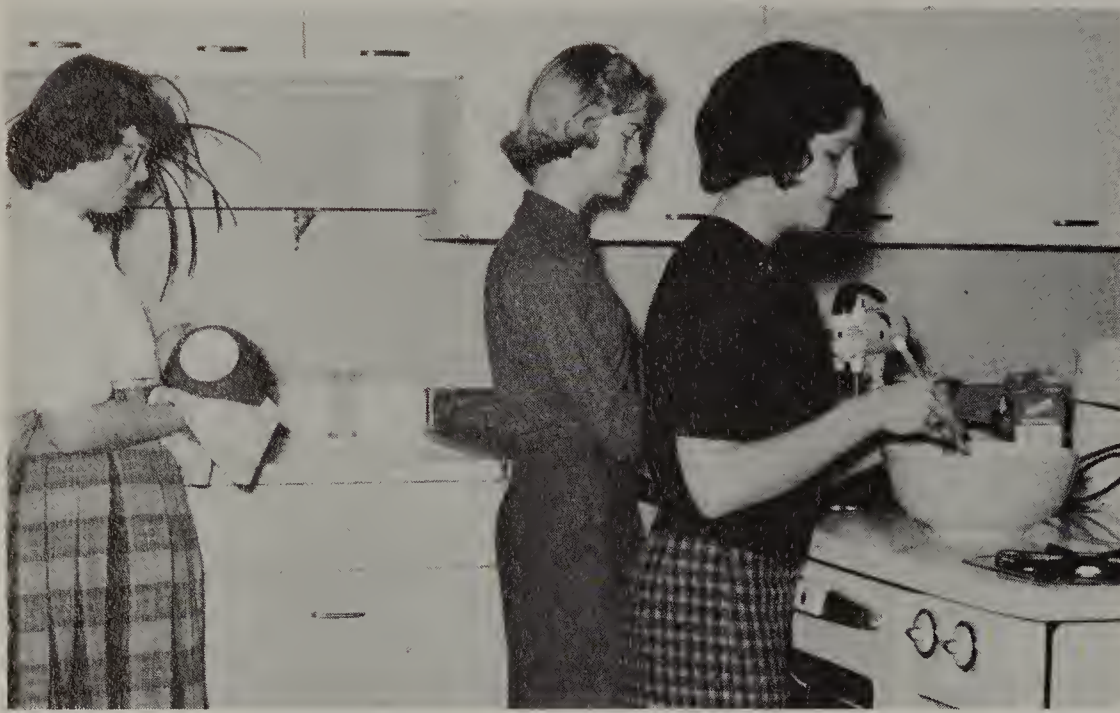

Northwest has a well-equipped science department offering instruction in general science, biology, chemistry, and physics. Students use the modern facilities afforded by three laboratories, one of which was completed last winter. The annual science fair sponsored by the Northwest Junior Engineers Club works through the science department in encouraging students to develop interests in scientific fields.

Upper right: Besides teaching science, Mr. McLamb must call the absentees and find the reasons for their absence.

These freshman girls learn early how important it is to be good cooks.

Mrs. Benton gets ready for a day's study in meal preparation.

"No, I didn't buy this—I made it." Sandy Cox proudly exclaims.

Mrs. Penner finds some time to sew for herself for a change.

One senior girl makes her gown for a June wedding... beautiful costumes are readied for the spring fashion show... everybody etches aluminum trays for Christmas... informal teas are almost weekly events... The whole school uses and enjoys the beautiful new room added to the department in December. The kitchens are used many evenings for community services.

Better Home Living . . .

Can you repair this broken chair? What kind of clover shall I plant? How can I stop erosion? How can I start my old truck? What shall I feed my prize calf? You ask the question, and either Mr. Selle or Mr. Jarvis will come up with exactly the right answer as they steer their classes into the joys of self-expression through wood work and growing things. The agriculture boys keep our lawns green and our shrubbery pruned. The well-equipped shop is a busy place, keeping many hands and minds alert and occupied.

In a two-county Tool Identification Contest Roger Hughes, Charles Selle, Jr., Gary Arrington, and Wayne Allen were first place winners. In the Wildlife Plantings sponsored by the Forsyth Wildlife Club, William Lane and George Dull were winners. V. D. Wall won a first place on tobacco at the Dixie Classics Fair.

Mr. Jarvis and his daughter Lynn exchange early morning bits of news as they arrive at school together.

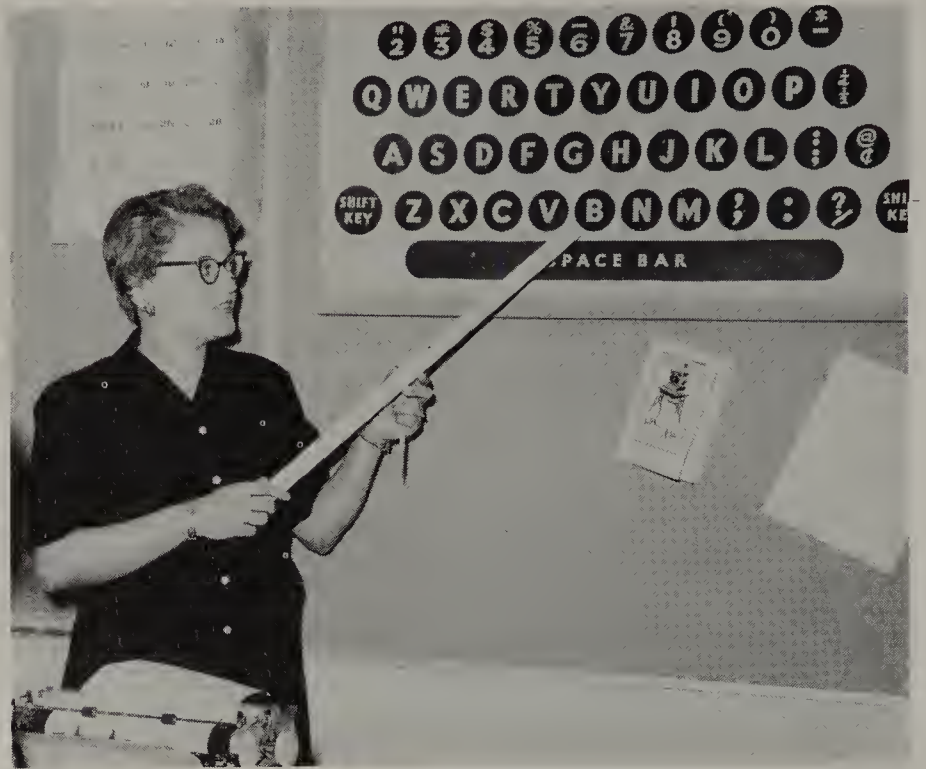

Charles Selle, Jr. watches the expert hands of his father in the shop.

Better Jobs . . .

Mrs. Byrne gives a quick glance around the classroom to see if everyone is ready for his timed writing.

Mrs. Hix explains, "Now repeat after me... 'B' is typed with the index finger, and 'V' is..."

Mrs. Newsom, a commercial teacher, finds time for her hobby as she watches the lunch line.

Five units in commercial subjects are required for a diploma in that department. In 1961 only fifteen such diplomas will be issued at Northwest.

Almost every student in our high school takes personal typing during his junior or senior year and applies his skill in the service of the journalism class, the office staff, the library, or just in improving his own grades on themes.

Many of our students go directly from Northwest into desirable office positions; some go on to future business study in college; others, of course, get married and confine their commercial skill to letter writing and making market lists!

"Eyes on copy... begin!"

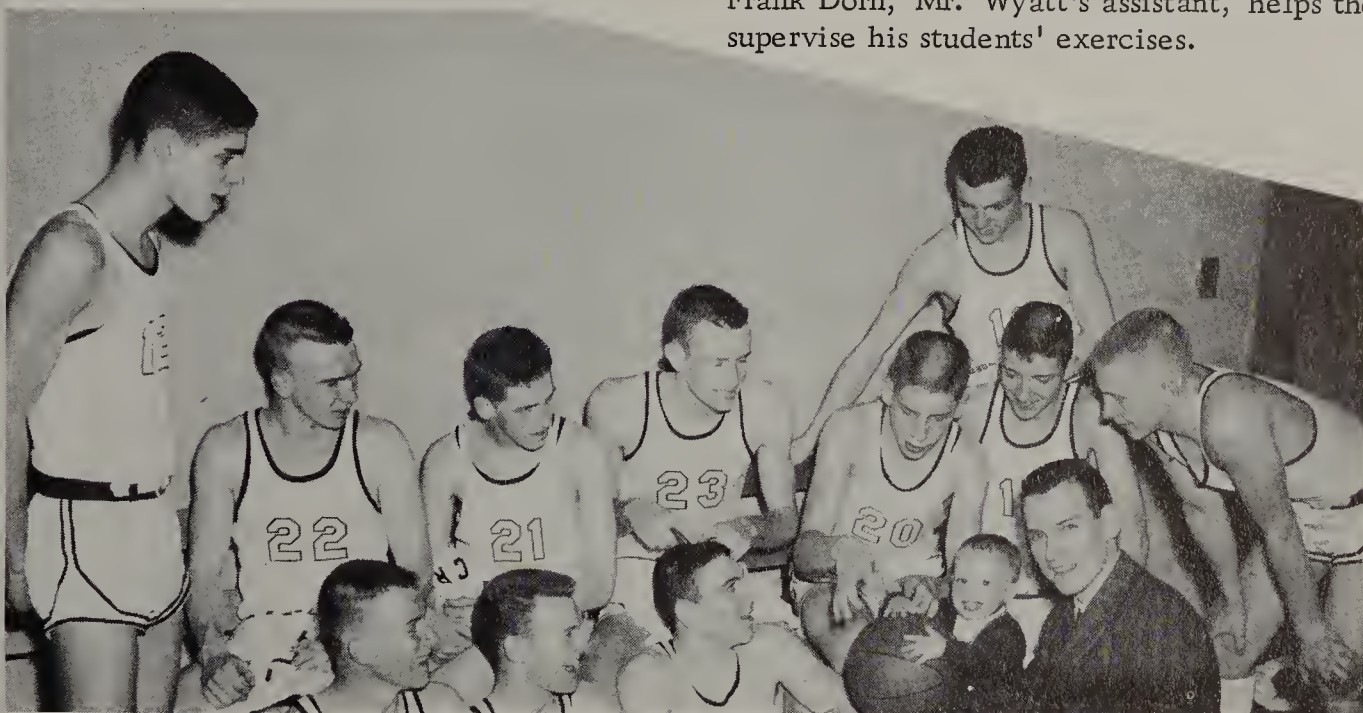

From the expressions on these girls' faces, one would think that Nancy Golding and Rachel Davis enjoy their shorthand class.

Better Health

Physical education is required of freshmen and sophomores only. We are aware that it should be required of all students, but our space and equipment cannot take care of any more than it now does. A whole section of our modern new building is devoted to the gymnasium, physical education classes, offices, storage space for equipment, and dressing rooms. It is still not enough! Basketball, softball, volleyball, baseball, football, are the sports for which we have both space and equipment.

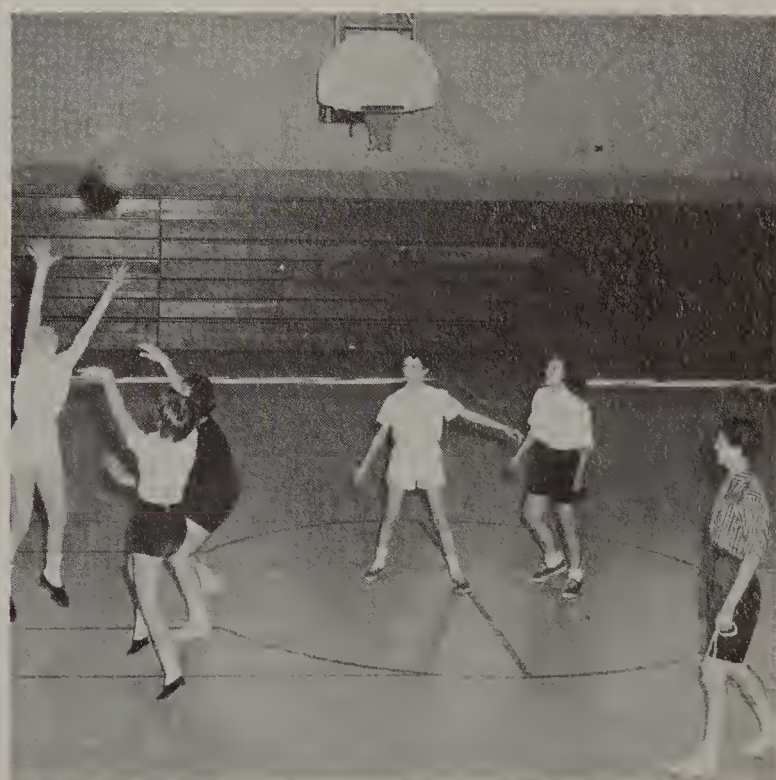

Frank Dorn, Mr. Wyatt's assistant, helps the physical education teacher supervise his students' exercises.

Mr. Wyatt, physical education teacher, but also varsity basketball coach, lets his son Mark give the boys a pep talk for a change.

Butch Cox and Bill Parks show agility in handling the basketball during a class period.

Miss Dowell supervises a thrilling basketball game, which is typical of her physical education classes.

We Discover Our Talents . . .

Mr. Snyder, the glee club director, has helped many students learn more about playing our new organ.

Mr. Deaner considers a new selection for the band.

The school's new storage space for band instruments is a pleasant convenience for band members Dickie Speas, Hugh Allen, and Charles Conrad.

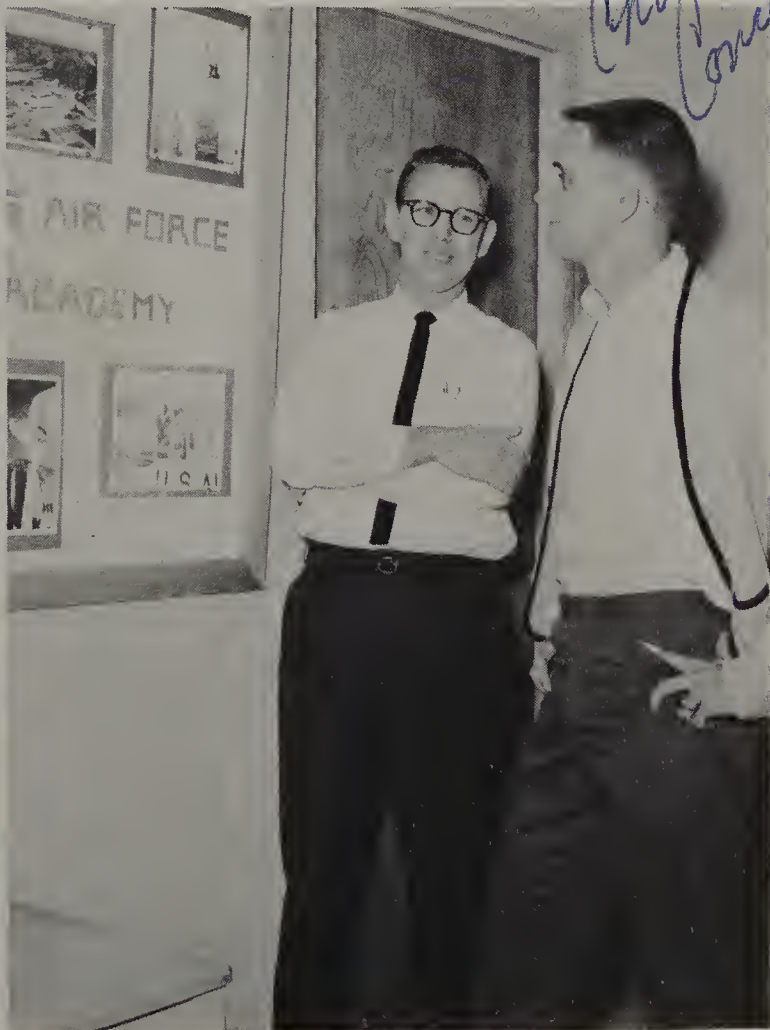

Hilda LeVan, an undecided senior, discusses schedule changes with Mr. Ivey, assistant counselor.

We Plan For Our Future

Charles Conrad, an inquiring senior, receives information on opportunities offered to him after graduation.

Mr. Underwood can easily put his finger on any information by looking in his detailed files. His able assistants are Betty Lawson and Becky Smith.

Unity

in Activities . . .

In our activities we learn to work and play together. Unity is essential to both. "No man is an Island, entire of itself," wrote John Donne; and nowhere is that more apparent than in the teamwork needed to make a strong team, a successful club, a winning unit in any department. At Northwest we work hard and play hard and seek in all things to win with honor and lose, when we must, with grace and serenity. We consider a good program of activities essential to the well-rounded individual we want each of our students to be.

From each homeroom at Northwest comes one representative who meets with the four officers every week. These students are elected by the student body every spring preceding their term in the fall. The main purpose of the Student Council is to bring the young people of Northwest into closer working contact with the faculty. Some of the more important activities performed by this organization include operating the bookstore, planning and carrying out the homecoming festivities, sponsoring various dances, arranging the assembly programs, and conducting daily devotions.

The Key Club is an honorary society for high school boys who have excelled in character, service, and scholarship. Selection of members is based upon the following qualities: clean speech and thought, an average of 80 in all subjects, service to the school, and a life of Christian ideals.

Some of the activities of the school year 1960-61 are as follows: (1) presentation of a $200 scholarship (2) running the concession stand during football and basketball season (3) planning and partially building a school park.

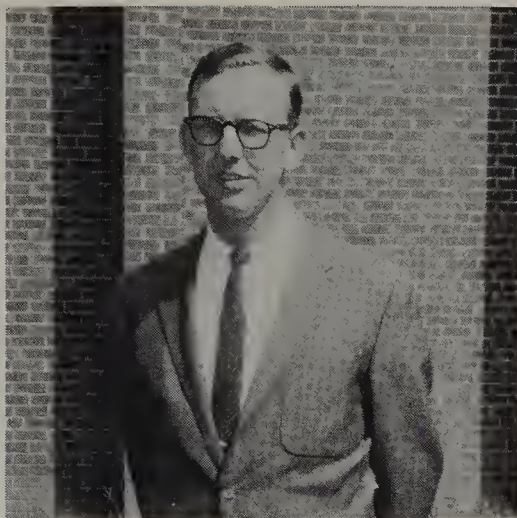

President Larry Tise and Mr. Underwood discuss the big-scale project for this school year.

Key Clubbers Stuart Fisher, Larry Tise, and Marvin Thomson serve Sandra Barnes, Frank Dorn, Becky Tuttle, and Barbara Sprinkle from the concession stand, which the club operates during the sports events.

The FHA girls devoted one Thursday night out of each month to serving the Key Club boys at their dinner meetings.

Recognizes Achievement

The purpose of the National Honor Society is to honor students who have excelled in academic work, demonstrated ability as school leaders, served the school in a variety of activities, and displayed exemplary personality traits in school and community life.

As an honorary society, the Northwest Chapter selects its members on the basis of scholarship, leadership, service, and character. After the induction ceremony, the student must keep these high standards in order to maintain his membership in the society.

The Debating Club was organized under the direction of Mrs. Zimmerman for the purpose of giving students a chance to learn the proper procedures used in debating. After the unusual success of Northwest's first debating team, a debating club was naturally considered to give students an idea about debating and to give practice to those who wanted to become members of the Debating Team. Debating has proved a challenge to those who have participated.

Art Club Portrays Interesting Sights

The Art Club at Northwest was formed during the spring semester of 1960 to further the interest in art. Members of the Art Club are introduced to many media and art forms. After a lecture-demonstration, the students are encouraged to experiment and to produce as much material as possible. The spring exhibit is a culmination of the students' efforts. Local artists provide the instruction.

Boys in every part of the United States and in foreign countries participate in the Science Clubs of America. The clubs are furnished with information on science projects and many other suggestions for effective activities. Through encouragement and distribution of information by Science Service, over a half million young people show science and technology exhibits and projects annually in local science fairs. Each year Westinghouse gives science scholarships and awards, which amount to about thirty-four thousand dollars, and honorable recognition for second place winners.

Jumpers And Runners

Paul Snell is an outstanding track boy in the mile run. He won the conference title, the district title, and placed third in the state track meet, during the 1960 spring season.

Milton Bauguess, a winning track star, finds himself day-dreaming during class.

Jerry Gillespie and Milton Bauguess compete for first place in the high hurdles.

"Up and over!" Bauguess has done it again.

For '61

Cross-country broke its way into the sports program of Northwest for the first time this year. Track coach Bill Gregg felt that this sport would be a good conditioner to precede the regular track season in the spring.

Since this was its first year, only six boys participated in the sport. The members of the team are Paul Snell, Philip Leon, Jimmy Wall, Dwight Morris, Eddie Alley, and Frank Stuart.

The distance the boys run in cross-country meets is approximately two and two-tenths miles. Coach Gregg started early in the year getting his boys in condition for the grueling race.

Northwest placed seventh out of eighteen schools taking part in the state cross-country meet at Raleigh.

Girls' State Delegates

Citizens to the legendary Girls' State are selected by the American Legion Auxiliary on the basis of citizenship, leadership, and scholarship. Sheron Fulk and Carol Ferguson, two senior girls, were this year's representatives.

VESPER SPEAKERS

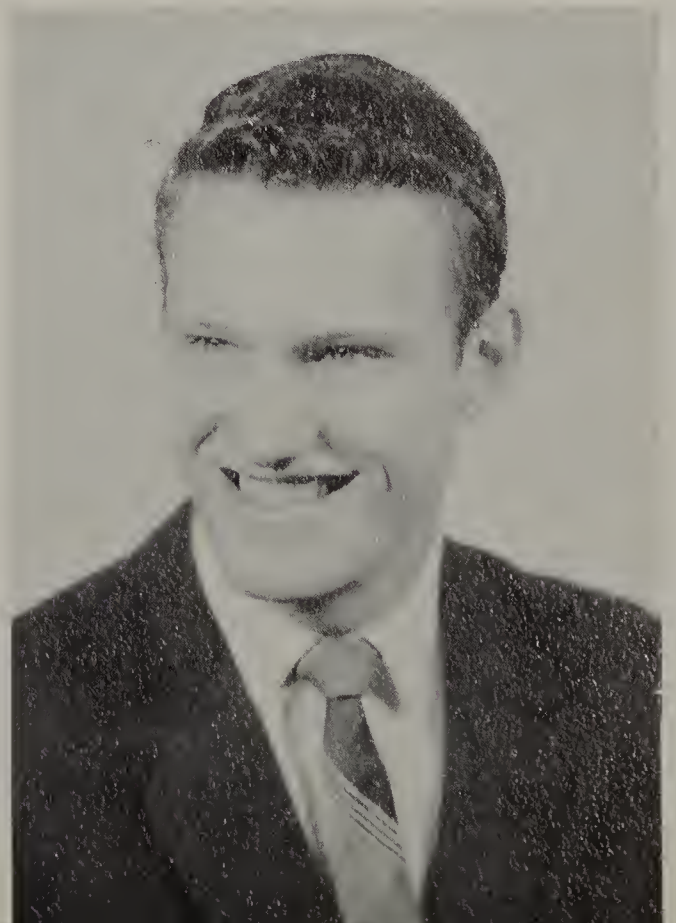

Larry Tise, Yvonne Merritt, Alice Smith, Jimmy Morgan.

The D.A.R. Good Citizen Award is presented each year to a girl in the senior class who is selected by the faculty. This award is sponsored by the Old North State chapter of the D.A.R. The faculty's choice this year was Sheron Fulk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Alvin Fulk.

WINNER OF CIVITAN AWARD

Larry Tise

The Civitan award is a coveted honor. At Northwest it is presented annually to the senior considered by his classmates and the faculty to be our best student citizen. The winner must be outstanding in service, in character, in leadership, in scholarship. There is no reason to review Larry's achievements here since they are already recorded throughout the entire book.

wish you the best in

See you at our

Dear Advertisers:

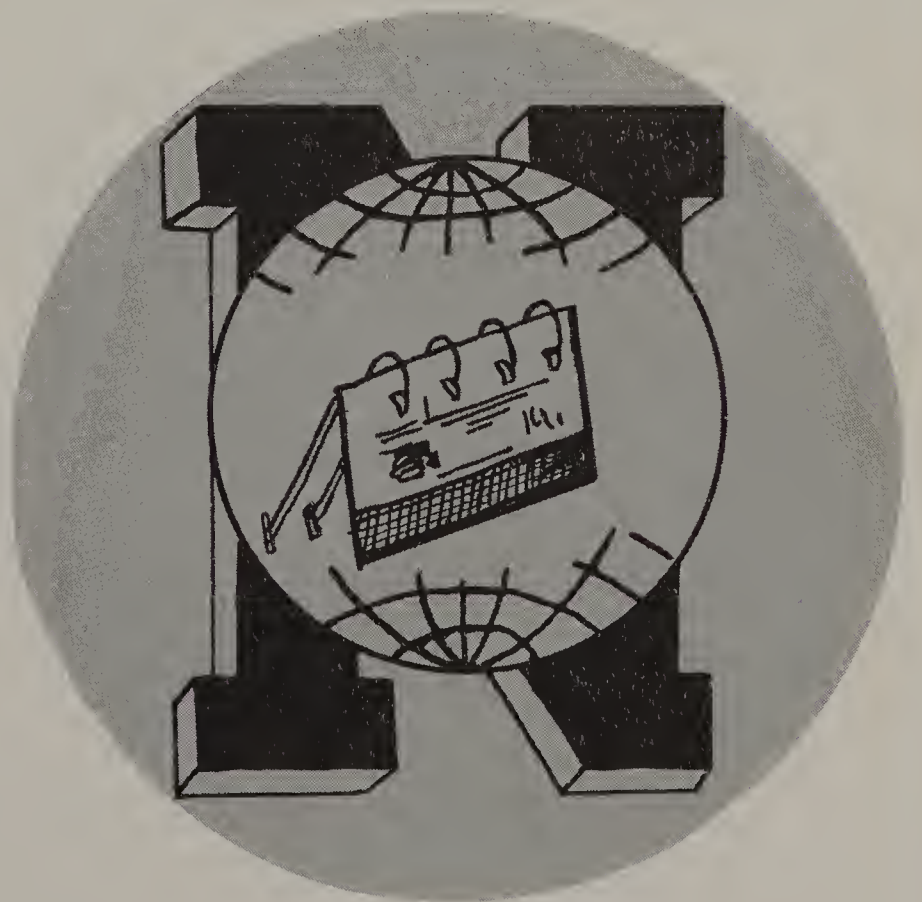

Thank you for helping to make this issue of TOHARI possible. Unity between school and community means harmony and a pleasant relationship. Your interest in us, and your willingness to help us, reflect your concern for the well-being of the youth of America and hence for the country itself.

You have worked with us as a team to make this the best possible yearbook, and we are lastingly grateful.

Many of you have advertised with us every year of the six that TOHARI has existed as a yearbook and Northwest as a school. Your loyalty means much to us, and we pledge you our loyalty in return.

Many, many copies of this yearbook will go on even for generations as treasured possessions, so your willingness to become a part of it should be a source of pride and profit for a very, very long time.

The students of Northwest thank you for your support and your cooperation.

Carol,
I really won't be able to find words to express to you my gratitude for your friendship. It has grown constantly since
the beginning of this year.
Really it is hard to put it down in words
so I would like to sum it up by saying that I won't ever friendship too continue through life.
It really has been
fun in I wish speaking.
It wouldn't have been nearly as much fun if we had not been together.
Always remember me.
Love Judy

Dear Carol,

We are at Stalup's now and Skewer is in the back seat. This ends another year at N.H.S. it has run from this year. Carol your car will never be the same.

Remember the Sag. Dance, the M.Y.F. hayride, the day

we got out of School to go to Wick Forest Bookstore?

Remember when we went to the Drive Inn and all the track meets. Oh we have had fun and hope to see you alot this summer but if you are like me you will spend time at the Beach. What are we going to raise in New York? }? Hell your friend, Vicki D.H.

Dearest Carol,

With out a shadow of a doubt
I will never forget all the wonderful and exciting times that we have had together + our boyfriends, or should I say my boyfriend and your boyfriend(s)?
this year. I doubt seriously if any one could find more to get into in the short time that we did. Every bit of this year has been enjoyable and holds backs of memory(s). Remember the rum balls, heck remember the rum! I could mention others, but your mother will probably read this. My headache still reminds me of the triple date we had at the drive in. I bet neither of us will ever go to a P.J. party, and beaknik party on the same week-end, man I tell you I really felt like a beaknik! There is still no one like you to study an exam with - we do have our on "way" don't we?
things have sorta dwindle these last two months but maybe we can make up for it in New York - that is if we go - I want you to show me all the night clubs. O.K.
I can think of many more things we have done - but I can not think of a "nice" way to write them down. So!

The best is yet to come!

Remember our good times.

Love,
Samaly

P.S.
another hell raiser

Carol,

I have really enjoyed going to Northwest and being in your study hall.

I wish you all the luck
in the world and I hope you have a ball in New York.

I love your car and I guess I had better put my shoes on because my feet are cold!

Remember,
